

State Compensation Insurance Fund Presents a Free Seminar Heat Illness Prevention

Understand the new California Heat Illness Prevention regulation, and how you can comply

Learn what you must do to protect your workers

Update your Injury and Illness Prevention Program (IIPP) with the Heat Illness Prevention requirements:

- Identify and Evaluate the “hazard”
(e.g. heat exposure and personal risk factors)
- Provide a “control” for the hazard
(e.g. water and shade)
- Implement a response plan
(including emergency medical services)
- Train your workers on heat illness
(e.g. prevention and remedy)

Do you have an IIPP? If not, receive the information and tools to produce one.

This seminar is designed to inform employers and supervisors about the new Heat Illness Prevention regulation. Learn how it applies to workers, and how you can meet the Cal/OSHA standard by updating and implementing your Injury and Illness Prevention Program to reflect the new requirements. The workshop will include a presentation on “Heat Illness Prevention”. It will also include a presentation on the Injury and Illness Prevention Program (IIPP) by local State Fund Loss Control Consultants.

Featured Speakers:

This seminar will feature speakers from the Cal/OSHA Consultation Service and State Compensation Insurance Fund. By partnering with the Cal/OSHA Consultation Service, State Compensation Insurance Fund is committed to bringing employers the latest breaking safety and health information. It is State Fund’s mission to assist employers in providing their employees a safe place to work.
